

COURSE ON BACON HOGS

Plans have been made for the holding of a special two-day course on bacon hogs at the Dominion Experimental Farm at Lacombe, March 26 and 27. This course is being held under the joint auspices of the Dominion Livestock Branch, the Dominion Experimental Farm at Lacombe, the Provincial Department of Agriculture and the Faculty of Agriculture at the University. The course will be free and all farmers interested in the raising of the bacon type of hog are invited to attend. The program will be as follows:

There will be, at this special course, demonstrations of live bacon hogs both in breeding and commercial classes. These will be judged on foot and placed the first day, and immediately afterwards will be slaughtered and brought in on the second day for demonstrations in dressed carcasses. For this purpose the federal livestock branch will supply an expert packing house man. There will be discussions on the rearing, feeding and finishing of the bacon hog, and a discussion also on the general bacon hog situation in the province.

It is believed that this special course will draw many bacon hog breeders and those desiring to enter this branch of hog raising.

GREAT THOUGHTS

To be discontented with the divine discontent, and to be ashamed with the noble shame, is the very germ of the first upgrowth of all virtue.—Charles Kingsley.

It is not a lucky word, this same "impossible," no good comes of those that have it so often in their mouth.—Thomas Carlyle.

The setting of a great hope is like the setting of the sun. The brightness of our life is gone.—Henry Wadsworth Longfellow.

A hypocrite is in himself both the archer and the mark, in all action shooting at his own praise or profit.—Thomas Fuller.

The law is the last result of human wisdom acting upon human experience for the benefit of the public.—Samuel Johnson.

Certainly nothing is unnatural that is physically impossible.—Richard Br. ley Sheridan.

Value of Farm Lands

According to a bulletin issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, the average value of occupied farm lands in Alberta is placed at $35 an acre, compared with $24 in the United States and $26 in British Columbia with $26 an acre. Alberta has the lowest average per acre of occupied farm lands in all the provinces of Canada, says Saskatchewan, where the average value is estimated at $24 an acre. Manitoba's average is $28 an acre.

Municipalities Have Done Well

Sixty-eight municipalities in Alberta during 1924 were able to finance their operations during the whole of that year without a borrow money, according to the annual report of the provincial department of municipal affairs which was presented to the Legislature last week. Of the total of 169 municipal districts in the province, only eight have outstanding debenture indebtedness, which totals $81,000,000. Of the 101 districts which had to borrow money for current year's operations, all but 29 repaid the borrowings for the year. The districts which had to borrow money were: 1924 amounts for interest payments falling due in 1924.

The debenture issues of municipalities during the year totalled $1,341,332, of which $1,341,332 was for interest payments falling due in 1924. The debenture issues of municipalities during the year totalled $1,341,332, of which $1,341,332 was for interest payments falling due in 1924.

GASOLINE RAIL CAR FOR THE LINE FROM PROCTOR TO NELSON

Lively interest was manifested at the Dominion Pacific station, Calgary, on Thursday, in a gasoline rail car. This was of singularly smart appearance and is intended for the conveyance of passengers from Proctor to Nelson. Although such cars are in use in the east for short runs, it was pointed out that one has been seen in the west.

The average in wheat in 1924 is estimated at 5,573,813, and the average yield at 11 bushels, giving a total yield of 61,513,945 bushels, compared with an average of 23 bushels and a total yield of 144,824,000 bushels in 1923.

The average yield of oats for 1924 is shown at 30 bushels, compared with 50 the year previous, and the average yield of barley at 25, compared with 38 1/2 the year before.

Honey is included in the 1924 statement for the first time, and is given as 25,000 tons with a value of $13,750.

Poultry products show an increase, and animals slaughtered and sold are estimated at a value of $20,750,000, compared with $17,146,000 of the previous year.

The diversion of production for 1924 is as follows:

Grain Crops	$106,899,146.70
Dairy Products	$2,927,750.00

Million-Bushel Shipping Points

Four points on the C.P.R. shipped more than a million bushels of grain each in the shipping season of 1924-25. The points were: Vulcan with 1,135,000 bushels, High River with 1,032,000 bushels, Nanton with 1,032,000 bushels, and Cardston with 1,032,000 bushels. The total shipments of the division to March 1 were 25,500,000 bushels, of which 19,750,000 bushels were wheat.

Good Price for Land

A price of $33 an acre for a farm near Claresholm, Alberta, was reported to be made during the past week. This is the highest price paid in the district for some years, according to the Lethbridge Herald.

Indian Reserve Land Sold

A township of land in the Saddle Lake Indian Reserve, 45 miles north-east of Vegreville, was sold the past week for a total of $10,000 of which half will go to the Indians of the reserve, in cash, and the other half in

ALBERTA COAL FOR ONTARIO

Arrangements are now being made for the shipment of 100,000 tons of coal from Alberta mines to the Ontario market, under special arrangements with the railways, the provincial governments of Alberta and Ontario and the federal government.

Public Shooting Grounds

Public shooting grounds have now been established in Alberta and other provinces by the federal government. In Alberta there will be 32 of these grounds, chiefly in the western part of the province. The game commissioner of Alberta has not yet received official information as to the location of these areas.

High River's Big Horse Sale

A huge auction sale of horses at High River, which may become an annual event, was instituted last week. The total amount realized at the first sale was $35,000, with $445 paid for a fine team of Percherons. There were 458 horses entered for sale.

Rural Credit Societies Do Well

Rural credit societies in Alberta appear to be in a healthy state, according to a report made to the provincial government offices. With about $900,000 outstanding collections due to them, the societies are doing well. There are now 28 rural credit societies in the province. The government report also states that the societies are able to reduce interest rates to 6 percent.

This was of singularly smart appearance and is intended for the conveyance of passengers from Proctor to Nelson. Although such cars are in use in the east for short runs, it was pointed out that one has been seen in the west.

Officials of the railway stated that the car was built by the Ontario Car Company, and would accommodate 44 passengers, which, by the way, was the maximum capacity of the car. It is a fast car, capable of making a trip in an hour.

Efforts to make a mixed train has run between Proctor and Nelson, but that had been found to be inadequate to meet the traffic. The new car can make two or three trips daily, appearance it somewhat resembled a street railway car, although more modern looking with its compact frame.

The car left on Thursday morning for Nelson.

PLAIN CEREMONY AT INAUGURATION OF U.S. PRESIDENT

Washington.—Calvin Coolidge at the inauguration ceremony and quietly as the duties of President of the United States for four more years.

In a brief ceremony, which never deviated from the simple plan laid down by himself, Mr. Coolidge renewed his oath of office on his grand-mother's bible, and in a short address restated his government's policy of tranquility.

Thousands of people witnessed the induction of Mr. Coolidge, and millions more listened to what he said at their radio sets. His address was "My Countrymen." In an unburied, even tone, the president read from the White House where he took his place with his guests in a glass-enclosed reviewing stand to witness the passing of the inaugural parade.

REMOVAL OF SETTLERS

The removal of settlers from the drought area in the south-eastern part of the province, initiated last fall by special arrangement between the provincial government, the railways and the federal and settlement boards, is proceeding. About 600 families have now been removed from the dry districts to other parts of the province. Some 70 families have gone into irrigated districts. The settlers removed are permitted their own choice of location, but every opportunity and encouragement has been given them to go to irrigated districts if they so desire. This has been particularly the case in connection with the Lethbridge Northern Irrigation district, at least to the extent to which land has been available in that district, and a number of families have been located there. The settlers removed were located west and north of Lethbridge along the White River, the Macleod and Alderley lines, while many others went farther north in the province.

WHEAT DOWN 14 CENTS

Slump in Record in Peg Mart

Winnipeg, March 13.—Undergoing the severest crash in the history of the Winnipeg Grain Board, wheat prices during the session of chaotic trading today slumped 15¢ to 16¢ cents before the panicky movement was halted. May wheat moved 14¢ cents down.

Favorable crop reports from the winter wheat belt also influenced the downward trend of prices. There were a few reactions of one or two cents, but the advances were short lived. Local exporters stated emphatically that no export business had been worked on today's break. The settlement was decidedly bearish, the close showing May at $2.74, July 41.70, and October 41.70.

Common to All Markets Friday

The disorganization was common to all markets, rice recording 15¢ cents, flax 11¢ 3/4 cents, barley 6¢ 3/4 cents, and oats 6¢ 1/4 cents.

The market was one of the most erratic and nerve-racking affairs experienced here in many months. Liquidations poured into the market every quarter and traders tumbled over one another in a frantic effort to dispose of their holdings. It was so large that it was virtually impossible to follow the operations of the market, and the close showed a No Export Demand.

For American Wheat

The news today was all of a bearish character, according to reports from lower and later dropped to 5¢ 1/4 cents. Heavy shipments Argentine and Australia, and the fact that the United States was absolutely no export demand for North American wheat. These factors all conspired to bring about the sharp drop in the market. It was not until the market ran into stop loss orders the decline continued all unchecked.

CONSERVING FERTILITY ON PRAIRIE FARMS

During the first few years of cultivation and cropping, Western prairie soils lose fertility at a rapid rate. This is more particularly true when summer fallowing is practiced. Investigation by Dr. F. T. Shaw, the Dominion Chemist, carried on over a series of years, have proved, however, that as time goes on the loss of fertility occurs at a less rapid rate. The lessons learned from this investigation point conclusively to the necessity of introducing rotation grasses and clovers into the farming practice if profitable farming is to be maintained. At the conclusion of his bulletin covering his investigations on this subject, the Dominion Chemist points hopefully to the increasing adoption of mixed farming, including dairying and stock raising. The extension of this practice, Dr. Shaw points out, necessarily involves a scheme of soil management which serves to maintain fertility and tends towards increasing rather than decreasing the grain output of the prairies. This bulletin, which covers investigations particularly at Brandon, Manitoba, Scott, Saskatchewan and Leithbridge, Alberta, is Number 44 of the New Series of the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa, and is available at the Publications Branch.

Dorothy had been praying each evening for a baby sister. The other day her mother, while reading the paper exclaimed: "I see Mrs. Smith has a little daughter."

"How do you know that, mamma?" Dorothy inquired.

"It says so in the paper, dear."

"Read it to me."

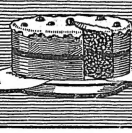

Her mother read: "Born on July 2nd, to Mr. and Mrs. John Smith, a daughter."

Dorothy thought a moment and then said: "I know what I am going to do. I am going to stop praying and begin advertising."

WE DO NOT CARE

We do not care what the world may say

If those whom we love are true; We do not mind the toil of the day If we know in the dusk and the dew There waits someone who will wait for us

As we come home to rest— Some friend who will say, "Dear heart, I know That today you have done your best."

We do not mind if the thorns are sharp, Or the pathway is rough and steep We do not mind if we plow and sow For others to come and reap. If we can but bear, when the twilight comes And the red in the west grows grey, Some dear voice whisper these words of cheer: "You have fought a good fight today"

For the heart don't care what the world may say If those whom it loves are true, For 'twas ever and always the heart's own way

To long for the love and rue, You forget the gain, the loss, and the pain That tortures your pulsing breast, If there's one who always, in sweet blind faith, Can say, "You have done your best."

WORLD WHEAT SHORTAGE

Eastern Miller Sees Wheat at $1.25 Next Year

Prediction of $1.25 wheat in 1926, if this year's crop is up to expectations, was made in an address by J. A. Osborne, milling authority of Ottawa.

The cause of the present high wheat prices was laid at the door of world shortage by the speaker. The surplus from this year's crop to carry over to next year would be very small. Mr. Osborne said there was no real shortage of oats in the world at present.

SHELTER FOR THE GARDEN

Assurance may be given that for the most successful growing of horticultural crops—fruits, vegetables and flowers—on the open Canadian prairies, protection from the strong and cool winds is essential. Shelter protection benefits these crops to a large degree, says Experimental Farms Notes.

The Morden Experimental Station, with the exception of a row of large box elder and green ash and cottonwood trees around the old farm house, was open prairie in 1916. During that season, Canagana and willow hedges were planted generously. These have developed well and afford, with other subsequent plantings of different material, friendly shelter to most of the garden areas. However, each season some plantings of vegetable crops and flowers are made in the open for comparison.

The following general observations have been noted at the Morden Experimental Station and at neighboring farmsteads:

1. Shelter is most valuable when found on all four sides of a crop.
2. If there were but one material for garden shelter, the choice would be the Siberian pea tree, Canagana, arborescens.
3. The most effective shelter seems to be that afforded by rows of spruce trees. These are of rather slow growth in early life.
4. Coniferous trees, such as spruce and pine, seem to be less severe on the soil moisture in summer, than are the deciduous broad-leaved trees.
5. Very satisfactory and durable shelter is gained when rows of spruce trees are employed, and these flanked on the outside with Canagana in hedge rows. The native white spruce is the logical choice of the spruce varieties, but Colorado blue spruce will probably withstand drought somewhat better.
6. Undesirable trees to be grown for shelter in proximity to a garden include balsam poplar, Russian poplar, cottonwood, box elder or "Manitoba maple," and elm. The elm is a gross feeder and uses much soil moisture. The other trees harbor plant pests and cause annoyance from seedlings, and the poplars send up troublesome suckers.
7. Non-suckering varieties of willows, such as laurel-leaved willow provide fair shelter for a large garden. This variety, however, should be carefully inspected for disease and cuttings and obtained only from a plantation possessing a clean bill of health.
8. Until the tree shelter attains stature sufficient to make it efficient, it is helpful to grow a temporary shelter. Among the plants available for such planting are sunflowers, corn and hemp.
9. Hemp makes an attractive shelter for the flower border. The seed should be fresh, as it seems readily to lose its vitality.
10. Shelter protection seems to benefit all garden plants, but it is necessary for the maturing of tall, fragile plants such as tobacco, delphiniums, hollyhocks, etc.
11. Good shelter is of much value to all hot weather crops, as tomatoes, melons, melons, beans, okra, corn, etc.
12. Shelter is distinctly desirable for vine crops. Windbreaks, such as the vines into braids or collars. The vine crops, such as melons, cucumbers,

Regular Saving

It is not the amount of money you deposit but the regularity of your deposits that counts. The systematic saving of small sums is a better way to reach a substantial total than by saving larger sums occasionally.

pumpkins, bear imperfect flowers and require visitation from insects to effect pollination. Insects, such as bees, work most effectively in sheltered locations, and stay in the hives if high winds are blowing and their forage is not sheltered. It may be pointed out that for the growing of horticultural crops for exhibition purposes the sheltered garden has a decided advantage.

Why You Should Support Your Home Town

Home business institutions that are helping to pay for the maintenance and improvements of the city are entitled to the trade of the people of the home town.

Outside business concerns do nothing towards the improvement of the home town.

Buying away from home when you can get better service and as good values at home, should be universally discouraged. Every dollar and every activity should be united to make the business of the home town better.

Everyone of us should take an active and positive stand on all things that go to make local business better.

We should all take a mental inventory and find out how we stand in ability and honesty of purpose and willingness to make Red Deer better and bigger.

No man is a success who only enriches himself. The man is a success who enriches the community.

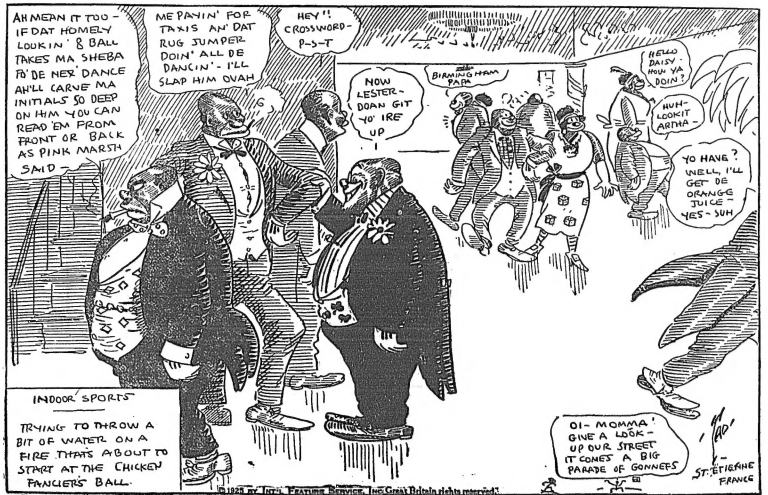

There is only one town in the world in which you prosper and that is the town in which you live.

A good way to boost the home town is to buy from the local business concerns who advertise in local papers.

Local advertisers are the people who lead in the things that keep a town moving forward in the march of progress.

HAZING AT THE UNIVERSITY
IN EDMONTON

A certain amount of attention has been attracted by the press accounts of a student at the University of Alberta at Edmonton having the University because of a "hazing" episode of which he was the victim. The facts appear to be that he resented so strongly the initiation ceremony to which students are expected to submit that he left the university without waiting to make a formal protest to the governing authorities or giving an opportunity for an enquiry by them. It is not suggested that this initiation ceremony was of a nature likely to cause pain, injury or degradation. It seems to have consisted mainly in an insistence on the wearing of a sort of skull cap, the cutting of a small portion of hair on the back of the head, and the turning up of the trousers unusually high. There is nothing very terrible in this ordeal. It would seem childish and ridiculous rather than anything else. There is, however, a quite serious issue involved in it. It is a fairly obvious question to ask why should such an initiation ceremony be insisted on at all. What possible sense or use is there in it? It is doubtfully funny and evidently in cases such as this it is capable of causing acute resentment. What earthly right have any set of students to insist on such a ceremony? If it were a question of the wearing of any recognized university garb or compliance with any established and even mildly intelligent custom, it would be understandable, but this arbitrary imbecility is more fitted for the playground of a kindergarten for mental defectives than for a university.

There is nothing very new about this sort of thing at institutions such as universities. "Ragging," the English equivalent of "hazing," is of old standing at English universities. In regiments, and on board ships of the navy. In the American universities and in some Canadian universities in the East it appears to have gone to lengths which make it a quite serious evil. In German universities the hazing and the street practice of "follow-my-leader" are a sort of equivalent of "hazing." Sometimes it is little more than the harmless and amusing expression of youthful high spirits. At other times it amounts to really brutal bullying of isolated newcomers by the older hands with a taste for organized cruelty. Occasionally it is a really useful method of teaching young men with swelled heads or objectionable characteristics a healthy lesson in the behavior of the world. It is hardly possible to lay down hard and fast rules about such a thing. It is really a matter of good feeling and good taste in each case. It is to be said that everything in the nature of practical joking should be rigidly suppressed, and that students, who are usually at the most boisterous time of life, should be forced to behave with the decorum of medieval penitents in the awful presence of the Inquisition. Equally it is true that customs which involve the compulsory infliction of pain, indignity or ridicule on individuals should be rigidly suppressed by the authorities. It is quite right that students at a university should be accorded certain rights of self-government and discipline, if only as a preliminary training for the exercise of the rights of citizenship, but those rights should always be subject to constant close supervision from higher authority. Students are not as a rule an age at which sympathy, understanding or restraint is highly developed, and they are a little apt to use newly attained liberty of action in ways which are neither desirable nor considerate. In the case of the University at Edmonton there is provision made for students aggrieved by any happening to put their cases before, first, a students' court, and then before an appeal court of the governing authorities, but in this as in other bodies it may be sometimes distinctly difficult for any individual to lay a complaint against a general custom without incurring disagreeable consequences to himself in his subsequent career in the university. It is perhaps worth noting that neither "ragging" nor "hazing" is known as the great Scottish universities. It would do harm if they ceased to be known as our Canadian universities, which are intended as centres of education and not of primitive horsemanship.

THE LOCAL CANDIDATE AT THE COMING DOMINION ELECTION?

Now that it is almost certain that there is to be a Dominion election this year, it is time for every individual to be deciding on a candidate to represent them in this constituency. The fact that the chances of success are rather small should not deter Conservatives from putting such a candidate forward. As has been pointed out on several occasions, the present member, Mr. Speakman, is an excellent representative, but at the same time his views are not those of Conservatives, and it is quite allowable to believe that he is mistaken in some of them, while recognizing his entire sincerity of purpose and knowledge of local conditions. If only to keep their views before the public and to ensure a thorough discussion of rival policies, Conservatives should put forward a candidate.

We believe that the best possible candidate for the present occasion would be Mr. P. E. Graham, the lawyer of this city. They fancy that Mr. Graham is of Liberal traditions, but that he is not inclined to view with favour the present Government, and would support the Conservative policy. If that is correct, he is just the man who is wanted. He is universally respected all over this district, is possessed of ripe and balanced judgment and a wide range of knowledge and reading, while those who have had to deal with him in business or have heard him pleading in court, know the moderate and reasonable, yet firm and effective character of his arguments. It is possible that Mr. Graham would refuse to stand. He has always been reluctant from putting himself forward for public positions with a modesty which is regrettable in one of his abilities and all too rare in most of inferior calibre. Nevertheless, we believe that he would do well to approach Mr. Graham and try to persuade him to stand, in which case the people of this constituency would be sure of an electoral contest between two first-rate candidates with a knowledge, capacity and courtesy which would make it both instructive and interesting.

A DISAPPOINTING BUDGET

The budget introduced by the Government of Alberta cannot be described as other than a disappointing one. In spite of a large increase in the revenue anticipated for the current year, anticipated expenditure has also increased so much that yet another deficit is expected. It is a smaller deficit than in previous years, being little more than $350,000.00, although this does not include any estimated loss on the telephone department. The estimates for department after department show increased expenditure, and it is not for the revenue from the liquor traffic, the deficit would be of an even more formidable character. It is difficult to believe that this increased expenditure is justifiable. The efforts of the Government to reduce controllable expenditure in the years since they took office are to be recognized as entirely creditable. They have reduced such expenditure by over one million and one hundred thousand dollars. More than a third of the increased expenditure is due to increased cost of the public debt, and for that the present Government cannot be held responsible except in a very minor degree. The other increases in expenditure, however, will need a lot of defending before they can be accepted as necessary. It is not that the money is being wasted. It is simply that the Province cannot afford to spend more money, however desirable the objects of such expenditure. To reduce deficits is good. To incur deficits at all is indefensible. It would be deplorable if the Government were to treat the revenue from liquor as a means not of reducing debt and taxation but of launching out into new expenditure. It is quite true that the undeveloped resources of this province are so large that the present public debt need not be regarded as tragically serious in comparison with them. Unfortunately, unless the policy of real and drastic economy is at once put into force, the development of our resources and the increased revenue from them are likely to be accompanied by increased public expenditure on a corresponding scale. The provincial accounts for the last year were good enough to encourage the hope of a better budget than the present one. Perhaps the most surprising thing in the Provincial Treasurer's budget speech was his expressed hope that in another year one at least of the expensive provincial railways would be got rid of, and that the Government is alive to the desirability of getting rid of all such railways. The main fact, however, is that until deficits are got rid of altogether, the Government must expect adverse criticism even from those who are disposed to regard it with a quite impartial eye.

CANADA'S POTENTIAL MINERAL RESOURCES

The most northerly part of Michigan projects like a finger into the centre of the Great Lakes, and contains the famous Lake Superior copper deposits which have been mined for 75 years and which have produced an estimated millions of pounds of copper. If the pre-Cambrian Shield has produced this enormous output of copper from this relatively small area, it is not unreasonable to assume that it has in its two million square miles area other vast regions yet to be found by the prospector? Aside from the pre-Cambrian, abundance of copper is also found in the Coast Range on both sides of the mountains, and also on Vancouver Island. On the East side of the Rockies the deposits are known to exist reaching right up into the Arctic Circle, but as yet there are no transportation facilities into these regions and therefore no development.

Nickle In 1923, when the construction of the C. P. Ry. was proceeding, the right of way was being blasted through a rocky area when one day a blast uncovered a deposit that was going to make Canada command the attention of the world, for the blast uncovered the nickel-copper Sudbury. As a result of this purely accidental uncovering Canada has supplied from 60 to 80 percent of the world's total consumption of nickel from this source, and is capable of doing so for a long time to come.

Silver N. B. of Sudbury, about 80 or 85 miles, is the town of Cobalt, the chief centre of the new famous silver area which since its discovery 20 years ago has produced two tons of silver for every working day and during the maximum year produced 3½ tons daily. Dr. Corlies says that this large area of rough flat land, about 100 miles, which he calls "The Cobalt Area" is of great interest for future prospectors, the only thing that only its fringe is known yet.

The three chief silver camps in N. B. of Sudbury are South Porcupine, Cobalt, and Gowganda. In 1923, the year before last, to the end of 1923 produced three hundred and fifty million ozs. of silver.

Placer gold has been found in the alluvial deposits in many parts of Canada, but especially in B. C. and Yukon territory. Following the great rush in 1897-1898 to the latter place the production reached over a million ozs. by 1904 and this has since then been and has been diminishing ever since. There is little doubt that placer gold in paying quantities will be found in our own province yet. In richly paying quantities and I can hear some rumors of great things to come from them during the coming summer far from the Rocky Mountain House.

Lode Gold Mines

The great bulk of the present lode gold production comes from gold-quartz deposits—some from gold-copper silver mines—which might have mentioned when dealing with these metals. However, the all lode gold production in 1922 and in 1923 was about 1,200,000 ozs. in each of these years.

Since 1910 Ontario has come to the front as a gold producer and today the mines in that province are responsible for about 80 percent of Canada's gold output. Most of this production comes from mines in the Porcupine district, about 10 miles N.W. of the Cobalt silver mines. It is quite interesting to note that the main part of the present lode gold production is situated along an old portage route which had been in use since the H. B. Co. days of the late 18th century. With the building of the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway and the influx of hundreds of prospectors following the discovery of silver at Cobalt, it was long before claims were staked throughout the district, the first important discovery (now the Dome) being made in 1909.

This Porcupine Area extends over some 8 or 9 square miles, and in it are three great mines—the Hollinger, the McIntyre and the Dome. The former is now one of the great gold mines of the world, with its 60 miles of underground workings which 4000 tons of ore are brought to the surface daily, and in 1923 it furnished over $10,000,000 worth of gold. It has stood third in the list of the world's greatest producers for the last ten years, and its production which its production will be doubled as soon as construction is completed of its new hydro-electric power plant.

Time will not permit of our dealing with the deposits in Quebec, Nova Scotia, Manitoba and B.C., but there is no doubt, inasmuch as the first three provinces contain the same geological character as the gold-quartz area in Northern Ontario, which also has the Coast Range in British Columbia, for generations to come, will yield great riches to the country's income.

In conclusion let me say that in studying the potential wealth of this vast area we shall entirely miss the point if we fix our minds upon what has actually been achieved instead of fixing them upon what these achievements signify. The use of inductive and deductive reasoning in conjunction with such knowledge as we have derived from experience in the past, is really necessary if the future possibilities of so great an area are to be dimly foreseen.

When the average thoughtful, well-informed Canadian citizen grasps clearly these facts regarding the mineral resources of the pre-Cambrian in Canada, sees their importance, and then intrinsically and in relation to other industries, and determines to back the opening up of this greater part of the country on a scale commensurate with its importance, a new epoch will begin in our national development, perhaps of even greater importance than that which began with the opening up of Canada's western wild lands. It is well to remember, however, that these two vast areas are complementary, not antagonistic, in the economic resources and needs.

The pre-Cambrian is a land of opportunity for young Canadians and to still quote from Dr. Corlies' report, let us teach them to look north, not south, of the Great Lakes for their future. Here lies a great land in which are revealed those ancient rocks which bear witness to the foundation on which all other visible rocks of our planet, but which also conceal vast treasures of minerals for man's discovery and use.

The Canadian Pacific Railway are now getting right up-to-date with their mixed train on this A.C.R. branch. Mr. F. W. Phillips is now the regular neway, and early morning passengers are especially pleased to know that they can secure a hot lunch on this early morning train.

greater privileges than they at present enjoy.

Export of Liquor

Dealing with the export of liquor from Alberta, Mr. Brownlee pointed out that this was a matter for federal legislation, and that the province had done its part at all times in supplying information that would enable the federal authorities to check up on this traffic.

As to the legality of Alberta's importation of liquor, Mr. Brownlee stated that the Dominion Government was being urged to amend the Canada Temperance Act so as to set this question beyond doubt. Some thought had been given to the suggestion that some limit be set on the quantities of liquor sold to individual purchasers, concluded Mr. Brownlee, but it was discovered after a careful check-up that there was not a single case where any man buying in large quantities was bootlegging. Some of our best people are buying in quantities," added Mr. Brownlee.

Questioned by R. C. Marshall, Liberal, Calgary, Mr. Brownlee stated that the question of billboard versus newspaper advertising might be discussed again in committee this session. A. M. Matheson, U.F.A., Vegreville, asked why the provision for an assistant chairman in committee was not made when this was done so that when Mr. Dinning was absent somebody might have the power to act in his stead.

"This gives the deputy the same full powers conferred on Mr. Dinning," he said. Mr. Brownlee, "It does," said Mr. Brownlee. "Then I beg leave to adjourn the debate on this reading," said Mr. Matheson, darily.

ROCKY MOUNT'N HOUSE

On the evening of the 7th inst., a Mr. and Mrs. Geo. T. Thomson as a surprise party to our esteemed old timer, Mr. Noble (Dad) Donaghy, on his 75th birthday. A jolly time was enjoyed in dancing and cards. Mr. Donaghy gave a couple of step dances just to show his feet were still able to step it off, as did Mr. Jos. Kirby, who is in his 80th year. Lunch was served at midnight by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. J. Craker, Mrs. J. Robson and Mrs. S. Williams, and your scribbles presented "Dad" with the three-story cake surrounded by 75 lighted candles and superintended the job of seeing that it was cut just right, and also congratulated Mr. Donaghy on his having belonged to the Loyal Orange Association for fifty-nine years, and hoped to have the pleasure of presenting him in many more Twelfth of July celebrations, upon which Bro. Donaghy replied with a few well chosen words of fatherly advice, and the assembly sang "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow." Among those present were Mr. Jos. Kirby, Lea Slaght, Mrs. H. Y. Miller, Mrs. N. Lewis of Edmonton, Wm. J. Smith, Mr. G. M. Corcoran, W. W. Davey, Mrs. J. Robson, Mr. Smith, Joseph and Melvin Reed, Howard and A. Jones, and Misses Myrtle and Grace Jones, Robt. Arries, Mr. Geo. Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Beale Robson, Mr. Fred Robson, Mr. Ralph Young, Mr. John Wilson, Mr. John Wilson, Miss Edith Johnson, Miss Amy Forbes, and Fred Stewart who supplied the music, and many others.

Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Chalmers returned on Monday evening from visiting at outside points. Mrs. Bert Young has been under the weather for the past few days but is much better at time of writing.

Mrs. Nelson Reed, who underwent an operation at Nordegg, and Mrs. J. Smith, who also underwent an operation at Red Deer, are both progressing nicely, and we hope to see them home in a few days.

Owing to the Wor. Master of the local L.O.L. not being able to attend the Provincial Grand Lodge in Edmonton next week, Mr. Wm. Pensek has been appointed as his proxy.

Advocates of government distribution of beer were reminded by Mr. Brownlee of the difficulties that stood in the way, including the need for refrigerating plants, and the fact that the government ought not to be responsible for the handling of beer from brewery to consumer until it could also control the price.

Importation of beer from B.C. and Saskatchewan, to reduce local beer prices, was declared by Mr. Brownlee to be an unlikely solution. Answering a question by S. G. Tobin, Liberal, Leduc, the Attorney-General declared that regular analyses by the provincial analyst had failed to disclose any grounds for complaint as to the quality of Alberta-brewed beer. Opposition to the request of the Alberta hotelmen to be allowed to sell beer by the bottle for consumption on the premises or in hotel bedrooms was strongly voiced by the Attorney-General, as this system would at once end all real control over beer consumption, and the present permit system, which he is convinced, was so strong a feature of the Alberta Act, might as well be dropped, leaving beer to be sold by grocery stores and others. He also objected to the closing-time rush for bottles of beer that would be caused by such a system. Mr. Brownlee urged the Alberta hotelmen to show that they could do their part in helping to carry out the provisions of the present Act, in a reasonable and business-like way before applying to the Legislature for joins with many friends for the very best wishes.

Mrs. C. Filicoff, of Alaska, was visiting friends at this point last week.

Dr. Sun Yat Sen, on whose head the Manchus dynasty fixed a price of $200,000 when Dr. Sun was campaigning for a republic in China, died at Peking, Thursday, from cancer of the liver. He was 63 years old.

Amelius Jarvis, serving time at Toronto for conspiring to defraud the Province of Ontario in bond transactions, has paid $140,000 of the $200,000 fine also imposed on him and on Ex-Provincial Treasurer Peter Smith. The remainder of the $200,000, he says, went to Pappall, now fighting extradition at Los Angeles.

Ready-to-Wear

A frock for evening, and for the many spring afternoon functions is almost a necessity, and what could be better than one of Georgette or Canton Crepe, embroidered with beads and ostrich. There is a charm about these dresses that cannot be resisted. And in the selection of such styles featured here, you will find one particularly suited to you, and each one is of a quality certain to give satisfaction.

Pale Yellow Georgette in tunic style, with ostrich trimming, brilliants around the neck and short sleeves add a most effective finish.

Navy Canton Crepe of exceptionally good quality with ecru lace collar and cuffs. It is made on the long slender lines with a deep pleated flounce around the skirt. A dress that can be worn anywhere.

Georgette in Eau de Nile for afternoon or evening wear. Pleated side flares with ostrich trimming and edged with lace. A pleated cape gives a very smart appearance.

Black Crepe Satin Beaute with tunic effect over American Beauty. Exquisitely embroidered in tinsel and American Beauty on the sleeves, neck and front, making it one of the smartest of the season.

Corsets

Your spring outfitting should include a Gossard to make it complete. We have a corset for every type of figure and our corsetiere will fit you correctly, free of charge.

200—Curved—For overage to stout figures. The clasp extends three inches above the waistline at the front, graduating to a slightly higher back to care for excess flesh at the shoulder blades. The medium length skirt has ample fullness for hips and thighs. Made of plain white coutil. $2.50

202—Average—A very adaptable corset designed for the medium to slight figures. The short front clasp extends above the waistline, the graceful top curving under the bust to a slightly higher support at the back. The skirt slopes to medium length over hips and thighs, graduating to a medium length back where it terminates in an elastic section. Made of fancy batiste in pink $2.50

241—Average—For the medium to curved figure. The top is three inches above the waistline. The skirt is medium length back where it terminates in a two-inch section of elastic. White coutil, at $3.75

335—Low bust corset, elastic top, medium skirt. Quick-lacing model, easily adjusted. A time-saver $4.00

382—Straight—A lightly boned corset for the slight figure. It has a low comfortable elastic top. The medium length skirt is cut straight around the figure; has three hooks and eyes below the front clasp and elastic section at the back. Fancy batiste in pink.

584—Average. For medium to curved figure. The top is 3 1/2 in. above the waistline, and curves under the bust to a medium high back. The long skirt has enough fullness to care for a good size thigh and a large elastic section across the back. Figured pink broche $7.50

388—Curved. For the tall, heavy figure. This model is heavily boned, especially at the back, to care for the woman of long full proportions below the waistline. The flat back ends in an elastic section. Made of good quality white coutil $6.50

Ladies' Suits

THE ENSEMBLE COSTUME MEETS THE VARIED NEEDS OF THE DAY

The surest way to smartness and utility is the three-piece way. The ensemble costume soars high in favor this season. The coat is long and straight and is almost the same length as the skirt. We have a few exceptionally smart models.

Grey coat with braid trimming in long straight style and small collar. The blouse of Jade Silk is long-waisted and joined to the skirt. The coat is faced back on either side with the same material. It is a suit of infinite grace and charm.

Another very smart and attractive ensemble suit is Taupe Gaberdine with narrow brown silk braid trimming, with flower design and lined at the sides with brown crepe de chene, small collar also with braid trimming, loose sleeves. The dress is made of heavy brown canton with pleats down the front, silk embroidery and narrow pleats where attached to the skirt.

Brown ensemble suit in loose style, with small collar, edged with buttons, imitation pockets and sleeves also with button trimming. The top is of novelty puatee silk crepe with pleated frill for sleeves and pleated frill at the bottom. The coat can be worn with another dress and is very serviceable and attractive.

COST OF NORTHERN
JAUNT IS REVEALED

Alberta Paid $1921 to Take Legislature Members on Sight-Seeing Trip

Edmonton, March 16.—It cost the province of Alberta $1921.30 to take members of the legislature on the sight-seeing trip last summer to Peace River, Grande Prairie, and other northern points, the public accounts revealed in the legislature reveal. Of this sum $1,955 was paid to the Edmonton, Danvers and British Columbia Railway, operated by the C.P.R., for fares, and the balance was for expenses.

The public accounts are full of interesting items showing how the public funds are spent in various ways.
For instance, in moving settlers from the dry areas to other points in the province, the public accounts reveal that $746.18 was spent for this purpose, in the form of freight paid to railway companies.

Calgary Not So Lucky
Calgary officials will probably be jealous when they see an item of $652.25 in the provincial public accounts for helping entertain the Royal Naval Squadron last July in Edmonton. Also, Edmonton was given $2,000 by government warrant for shipping the Edmonton Newsboys Band to Wentworth, after the legislature had refused to vote the money last year.
Other payments made by warrant included $400 to the Alberta Amateur Athletic Union and $300 to the Alberta
Musical Festival.

The Runaway Scrape

By C. A. STEPHENS

It was almost twenty years ago that Blue Rose Harris, then an aged woman, told us the exciting tale of her early childhood when she and her settled Texas and proclaimed their independence of Mexico. One of the stories was of the time American settlers fled for their lives to escape the vengeance of Santa Anna, who was then president of Mexico. The people of Texas always refer to the incident as the Runaway Scrape, and certainly no episode of American history compares with it for mud and panic. Even after eighty-odd years it is still to think of the sufferings of the unfortunate women and children who took part in that headlong flight of a hundred miles or more.

It was only a little girl, eleven years old then, the dear old lady used to begin, "but I remember as plain as it is today, I was with my mother and little brother Granville and I were and how pale my mother became when father came hastening home with the news that the Mexicans were coming and that we must leave the place at once.

But each time, if you could see us, we were laughing. However, we were afraid that there would be a general riot before the end of the day.
Some of the men were shouting and
less to push into the angry throng
and that we must wait till most of the settlers had crossed the river. From us for a long way back from the
ferry landing the muddy shore was packed close with teams of oxen and
horses, and all were struggling
toward the boat. For three whole
days we waited with nothing to eat
except the cold corn cake and, even
that was water-soaked.

"Rain fell most of the time we waited, and the river was rising
steadily. The water was already flowing over the bottoms round us
and rushing through an old channel
behind us. We were beginning to fear
the river almost as much as we feared
the Mexicans. Moreover, there were rumors that 'Texan Tories' and Indians were on their way to attack us
before we could cross. Many carts
and wagons never did cross, the mud held
them so firmly.

"During those dreadful days at Trinity Ferry black measles broke out
among the children, and some of the settlers died. The air was thick with chills and fever. Almost every cart
and wagon had at least one sick
woman or child in it. Some of the sick were three or four in one cart.

"The coughing and the outcries were pitiful. Many persons died and were buried almost anywhere by the wayside.
"Night and day the ferryboat crossed
the river as fast as ten men could haul at the rope. On the third day
the stream was half a mile wide, and the current was rapid; two trips an hour was the best the boat could do.
On the third night it went around and lay useless till morning, when the men warped it off.

"During the fourth night, when our turn came to cross, seven or eight hundred people were still behind us in the inundated bottoms. Father and Mr. Bundick drove the team on the bank, and the rest of us waded through the muddy water and clambered aboard. The Dyers and the Belis and the people of the house of six carts were taken on the same trip.

"Father held my little sister clashed to his side to shelter against the wind and the rain, and mother stood beside him and held a roll of our clothing and father's gun.
The river was covered with driftwood and the light from great pine-wood fires
on the muddy shores made it look like a rolling river of blood.

"Granville and I were so awestruck we could not speak. The men and the negroes 'heave-hoed' as they pulled at the cable. Drift logs and stumps bumped into us and made the boat rock and turn. It seemed to me that we could never reach the other side.
Twice the men stopped pulling and stood panting as they heaved fat to the cable. But at last they hauled in to the landing, where we sank to our knees in mud and water as soon as we stepped off the boat.

"For a long way the trail we followed was a narrow slough of mud. Mr.
Bundick gave mother his horse to ride, and she carried my little sister in front of her. Granville and I had to climb into the cart, though we were sorry for the poor oxen as we did so.

"We had gone only a little way when we came to a bayou of the river, over which was a log bridge. Though the water was above the planks, our cart drove out upon the bridge, which creaked and settled alarmingly as we passed to the other shore. The cart that was behind us and that carried Mr. Calder and his wife broke the bridge, and the oxen were drowned
and the cart was swept away. Mr.
Calder, who had caught hold of a part of the bridge that was still firm, leaped back and brought his wife out.

"Now a great outcry rose from the people on the far opposite shore. Hundreds of them were waiting to cross the bayou, but the water was too high for them to ford it; yet they were afraid that if they waited, the rising
water of the Trinity would catch them.

"Father and Mr. Bundick left us with the cart in a small pine woods and joined a party that was going back to build another bridge. The men kindled fires along the bayou and worked all night, cutting pine trees and hauling the logs to the bank. It was not till noon of the next day
that they finished the bridge.

"We drove on for several miles and camped in the pine woods a little way from a new settlement where the town of Liberty now stands. More than a thousand people with their carts were camping in the vicinity, for no one feared that the Mexicans could cross
the Trinity now that it was in firm
There in the pine woods my little sister died, and the next day we buried her in the sand. It had died at home. I though have been wild with grief; but now I had suffered so much and was so worn with hardship and lack of sleep that no tear came into my eyes.

The trail was now a bed of mud, and our sled sank so deep in the mud that the oxen could not pull it. Moreover, my little baby sister was ill.
We left the sled where it was and many of our things with it and continued the journey in Mr. Bundick's wagon.

"The next day we crossed Vince's
Bridge, and there we saw a strange sight.
More than a thousand wagons and carts were ahead of us, and all were trying to cross. Women and children and slaves were standing round the fires, and many were weeping pitifully.
Rain was falling, and the weather was very raw. Cattle were lying, horses were neighing, and men and women were shouting. All was confusion, and, hardly knowing which way to turn, we passed the night where we were and did nothing except to eat some of the cold corn cake we had brought. But each time, if you could see us, we were laughing. However, we
were afraid that there would be a
general riot before the end of the day.

"Some of the men were shouting and
less to push into the angry throng
and that we must wait till most of the settlers had crossed the river. From
us for a long way back from the
ferry landing the muddy shore was
packed close with teams of oxen and
horses, and all were struggling
toward the boat. For three whole
days we waited with nothing to eat
except the cold corn cake and, even
that was water-soaked.

"Rain fell most of the time we
waited, and the river was rising
steadily. The water was already
flowing over the bottoms round us
and rushing through an old channel
behind us. We were beginning to fear
the river almost as much as we feared
the Mexicans. Moreover, there were
rumors that 'Texan Tories' and Indians were on their way to attack us
before we could cross. Many carts
and wagons never did cross, the mud held
them so firmly.

"During those dreadful days at Trinity
Ferry black measles broke out
among the children, and some of the settlers died. The air was thick with
chills and fever. Almost every cart
and wagon had at least one sick
woman or child in it. Some of the sick were three or four in one cart.

"The coughing and the outcries were pitiful. Many persons died and were buried almost anywhere by the wayside.
"Night and day the ferryboat crossed
the river as fast as ten men could
haul at the rope. On the third day

This Lassie Has Her
Colds "Rubbed Away"

The mother of this attractive little girl,
Mrs. E. E. Emmans of 2155 Seventh Ave., N.E., Portage La Prairie, Man., is one of the many Canadian mothers who are enthusiastic about the wonderful value of Vicks VapoRub, for treating children's colds. Mrs. Emmans writes: "My little girl had a cold at night pretty badly, and Vicks did her a lot of good. I have also used it with very satisfactory results for head and chest colds.

"Vicks is just 'rubbed on' for sore throats, tonsillitis, bronchitis, croup or deep chest colds. When so applied, Vicks has a double action; it internally medicates and vapors are inhaled
at the same time, externally, it is absorbed through and stimulates the skin.

ment. Some said that the Mexicans had defeated General Houston; some said that Santa Anna would soon be across the Trinity and capture us all;
others said that our forces had routed
the Mexicans at the San Jacinto. All that night we did not know what to think whether to go farther, or to stay where we were.

"We decided to stay, and it was well that we did, for early the next morning we saw a horseman coming at a gallop through the pines. 'Turn back!' he shouted. 'You may all go home; our army has defeated the Mexicans!' He jumped off his horse and showed a written dispatch signed by General Houston. 'We have won a complete victory,' it read.
'The Mexicans are our prisoners. Go home in peace.'

"Sick and weak as all those poor wretches were, they were glad to hear of joy, and I imagine that no one else has ever heard such queer, shrill hubbub.

"That day all those hundreds and thousands of half-starved people started for home. The bridges over the Trinity had been destroyed to hold the Mexicans in check, and the cables
of most of the ferryboats were broken.
The boats were ordered to follow the east bank of the river and finally to cross it by a ferry near the mouth.

"Though the wind was blowing hard from the bay, we crossed without much trouble. I lost my sunbonnet and, however, and father went to jump over and get it, but mother held fast to my arm. 'Not for twenty sunbon-nets will I let you go! You know how many soldiers may be lying in wait!'

"After that I had nothing to wear on my head except a handkerchief in a tablecloth; and we were meeting so many people, especially young Texan
soldiers, that I felt a good deal embarrassed.

"The next day we came to the prairie at the San Jacinto where the battle had been fought. The field was a dreadful spectacle. The Mexican dead lay where they had fallen;
and at a distance we saw growing packs of wolves and here and there a gray panther sneaking along in the edge of the thickets. General Houston's force was camping not far off and guarding the Mexican prisoners it had taken. We learned that Santa Anna himself was among them. While the Mexicans were in rout it seems probable he escaped and hid in the woods.
But three Texans—James Sylvester, Washington Seacrest and John Boston—were sent to find him. They were stragglers, caught sight of him stealing from a thicket. Although they did not know he was Santa Anna,
they gave chase and soon overtook him. 'When he found that he could not escape any longer, he yielded and held up his hands. 'I yield myself,' he said in English.

"Even then the Texans did not know that he was Santa Anna; the fellow had hidden his uniform at a deserted house in which he had passed the first night after the battle and had put on the clothes of a Texan settler.
Seacrest, however, guessed he was a person of distinction; and the three Texans started to take him to General Houston's headquarters. On the way they passed a group of Mexican prisoners under guard, a few of whom cried out in tones of pity, 'Es el presidente! Es el presidente!' 'That's his prisoner was indeed a Mexican of distinction!'

"Sergeant Leo Roark and several Texan soldiers whom he knew invited us to go to camp and see Santa Anna.
Mother and Mrs. Dyer would not go because their clothes were torn and soiled; and, badly as I wanted to see Santa Anna, I was too ashamed to be soiled and my head to go where I should meet so many people. But Mrs. Bell, Mrs. Moses Shipman and several others went after they had titled themselves as best they could.

"Santa Anna, smoking a cigarette that had just been rolled for him, was sitting on a bench in the log house in which he was confined, when the guard opened the door for Mrs. Bell and the others to look in. At sight of them Santa Anna withdrew his cigarette, sent a puff of smoke toward the ceiling and made a polite
bow. 'Buenos dias, senoras!' he said.
I was a lower voice asked something that caused one of the other Mexican officers in the room to smile
and turn his face away from me.

"Mrs. Bell suspected that Santa Anna was making fun of them. 'Don't you speak to me in that way, you wretch!' she cried. 'For the trouble and suffering you've given us I'd like to pull your hair out!'

"Santa Anna laughed, for, although he did not speak English well, he understood it. 'You are angry with me because I am a Mexican,' he said. 'I was a bright-looking, handsome little man with black eyes, black hair, regular features and small delicate hands. I was always sorry that I did not go to sea.'

"Uncle James joined us at the camp,
and two days later we reached home.
The Mexicans had destroyed our garden and our crops, and they had tried to burn our house, but fortunately the fire had gone out after it had blackened one end of it. However, they had knocked the door off the hinges and ransacked inside; all the furniture was broken, and the bookcase that contained my father's medical library and his stock of medicines was ruined. The books lay scattered on the floor out of their bindings, and a drove of dogs that had wandered inside the house were sleeping among the broken glass and crockery. One large old hog came in the doorway and grunted savagely at us, and before we could get our things together

he had shot it.

"To see our home in such a condition quite discouraged mother at first,
but father cried, 'Cheer up! Cheer up!
We'll soon get over this! Our independence is won, and Texas will soon be a great state of the American Union!'

BEAUTIFUL HANDS

Many years ago a ruler issued an edict commanding all the women of the peasantry to meet on a certain day and pass in single file before the throne, and the one having the most beautiful hands was to receive a handsome prize. The day arrived and with it the women. Some had hands beautifully white with jewels, others wore red, showing great scars, some smooth, but browned with the sun. One woman was black-gloved, and was ordered to step aside. After all had passed, she was called. She came forward trembling in every limb. When she faced the ruler, he said, "How dare you come before me upon such an occasion with gloved hands?" she replied, "Several years ago my husband died, and when I looked upon the pinched faces of my children and thought of the scantyarder, I cried

In my grief, 'what shall I do?' A voice said to me, 'Whatsoever your hands find to do, do it with your might.' That comforted me, I arose from my knees, looked at my hands, and went out to see what they could find to do, and you see they have found plenty." And with those words she showed hands blackened and rough with toil. "I was commanded to do that," she said, "and I did it, and I was crowned with the prize, and dreading the taunts of the more fortunate, I wore my gloves." Clapping the offending members and falling down she cried, "Will my lord forgive?" With a smile and a wave of the hand she was forgiven, and dismissed. The next day the prize was awarded to the little widow, for said she, "How dare you come before me upon such an occasion with gloved hands?" she replied, "Several years ago my husband died, and when I looked upon the pinched faces of my children and thought of the scantyarder, I cried

SHOULDER BROKEN BY FALLING TREE

On Tuesday morning Mr. Stanley Scott, of Edmonton, a young man who was working for G. W. D. Brown, Rocky Mountain House, was struck by a tree which fell on his shoulder, fracturing his left shoulder with the right arm. Mr. Scott, who is 21 years of age, was brought in to the Memorial Hospital on Wednesday on the Canadian National. His final condition was down from Edmonton on Thursday.

M.D. OF GOLDEN WEST

The first meeting of the Council of the Municipal District of Golden West No. 371 for the year 1925 was held in the Municipal Office at Sylvan Lake on March 6, at 2 o'clock p.m., all of the Councillors and the Secretary-Treasurer being present. The newly elected Councillors, namely, Olson for Div. 2, Stringer for Div. 1, Isaacson for Div. 4, took the required oath of office. Councilor Stringer was elected Reeve for the current year, and Councilor Smith Deputy Reeve for the first six months of the year.

Correspondence

Letters dated January 6, February 10, 21 and 24, from the Deputy Minister of the Department of Municipal Affairs were read and filed. Letter from the Department of Public Health dated February 20, was read and filed. In the foreground of the Canadian Pacific Railway Co. wrote February 25, giving notice that they were withdrawing their appeal to the District Court Judge from the recent assessment of their lands. The Red Deer Municipal Council advised that Mr. John Bell had been admitted on January 31 as a patient. The account in connection with this case, $115, was also received from the Hospital and tabled.

Payne & Graham wrote on February 6 regarding a ditch on the N.E. of section 23-28-21-4. Councilor John Higgins was appointed a committee of the Council to deal with the matter. The Hall Insurance Board wrote on February 14 advising that the annual meeting of the ratemakers of the Municipal Hall Insurance District would be held in Calgary on March 18, and asked that a representative be appointed to attend. Moved by Councilor Isaacson that Councilor Smith be the delegate to the Hall Insurance annual meeting. Carried.

Moved by Councilor Fitzgerald that Councilor Smith be appointed an alternative delegate in the event of Councilor Smith not being able to go to Calgary on that date. Carried.

Mrs. J. C. Ensign reported having found the Municipal District books in excellent order for the 1924 audit. She also applied for the office of auditor for 1925. Mr. Andrew Allen, of Edmonton, also made application for the office.

Moved by Councilor Isaacson that, as Mrs. Ensign's work as auditor had been done in a satisfactory manner in previous years, that she be re-appointed auditor for 1925. Carried.

Angus Campbell, of Red Deer, appealed against the Wild Land taxation on part of section 13-28-4-1 for the year 1924, on the ground of having been living on the place and having it partly under cultivation before August 1 of that year. His appeal was confirmed by Councilor Higgins, and on motion by Councilor Olson, the 1924 Wild Lands taxes were cancelled, and an order made that the payment made on same by Mr. Campbell be refunded.

H. Jamoye, of Sylvan Lake, applied for a permit to cut hay on road adjacent to the 1924 audit. Moved by Councilor Olson that the same be given. Carried.

J. C. Plaster's letter regarding opening roads was again tabled until Councilor Fitzgerald had an opportunity to investigate the matter.

Four applications were received for seed grain for the coming season. After full consideration of the matter of supplying seed grain, the Council agreed unanimously as follows, on motion by Councilor Isaacson:

"Resolved, that under the circumstances in which the district is at the present time, and in view of the number of charges that may be against land and crops having priority of seed grain loans, and thus adversely affecting the security that the Municipality would have to secure for the repayment of such loans; this Council do not consider it in the best interest of the Municipality to borrow money for the purpose of securing seed grain at the present time."

The following accounts, on motion and examined and approved, on motion of Councilor Smith were passed: Western Municipal News, $25.75; Red Deer Advocate, $24.15; Dr. H. H. Hamilton, $2.80; Payne & Graham, $100; Mrs. J. C. Ensign, $106; P. Olson, $4; Kenneth Williamson, $5; Orme Funeral Home, $20; Dominion Express, $4.51; M. Matson, $21; John Smith, $4; Provincial Training School, $39; Dr. Somerville, $23.50; Isaac Staudinger, $3.50; Wm. Stewart, $27; Wm. Schineman, $4.45. Carried.

Elmer Johnson's account of $3 for opening roads was tabled for further consideration. Estimates of expenditures to cover labor, machinery, material, fees for road inspection and supervision, for the year 1925 were submitted and approved as follows, on motion by Councilor Stringer:

Division 1	$200.00
Division 2	100.00
Division 3	200.00
Division 4	100.00
Division 5	200.00
Division 6	100.00

The assessment roll showed the total assessed value of lands, not including subdivisions, to be, for the year 1925, $5,674,000.

Moved by Councilor Olson, that the mill rate be set at 6 mills on the dollar of the total assessment, for general Municipal purposes for the present year. This motion was, after due consideration, agreed to by the unanimous consent of the Council.

A resolution authorizing the borrowing from the Imperial Bank of Canada the sum of $5,000 to meet current expenses, pending the receipt of taxes. This was moved by Councilor Smith, and carried.

A resolution authorizing Wm. H. Stringer, as Reeve, and A. McCaskill, as Secretary-Treasurer, to sign cheques, notes, drafts, and any other negotiable bills that may be approved by the Council, and to perform the general financial business of the Council for and on behalf of the Municipality during the current year, was moved by Councilor Isaacson, and passed.

The date of the next meeting was fixed for Saturday, May 2. Meeting closed at 1:30 p.m.

SCOTT-STUART OFFERE ITEMS

Old friends in Red Deer will extend hearty congratulations to Mr. Wm. Scott, forest ranger, Rielmu, formerly driver of the Red Deer Fire Department, who has just returned from the war, on his marriage near Rocky Mountain House on Friday evening. Mr. Scott, who is 21 years of age, was brought in to the Memorial Hospital on Wednesday on the Canadian National. His final condition was down from Edmonton on Thursday.

THE HARD TIME DANCE

The Hard Time Dance, held in Blades Hall, Friday, was a great success, about 250 persons being present. The dance was held in the evening, and was won by Mr. John Olson and Miss Hazel Wilson.

Mr. Joffe will move back to Joffe for a short time, as Mr. Smith and family from Coronation are expected to arrive here some time next year.

Mrs. Walter Baines is very ill. The Middleton being called over there to help in the household duties. Kenneth and Dorothy Baines were home from school for the week end.

We hear the Martin family intend giving up their farm and have rented a house in Red Deer, where all three boys have secured work. We are very sorry to hear of such valuable citizens from our community, and wish them the best of luck in their new home.

The sale of machinery, cattle and horses will be held on Saturday, March 21, at 10 o'clock a.m. at the residence of Mr. J. D. Donnelly.

On the 20th of March a novelty dance will be held in Blades Hall. The "Ramblers" four-piece orchestra will furnish the music. Doors open at 8 o'clock. Ladies free with refreshments.

Mr. Blades returned from Vancouver Friday and reports rainy weather most of the time he was there.

"THE TWIN TRUST-BUSTERS AT WORK"

The twin trust-busters, Honourable James Murdoch and W. T. R. Preston, are again on the war path. They are making the war path. Even after three years of Liberal rule, which was supposed to be fatal to trusts, combines and monopolies, they have found these terrible dragons. They are out to get them—that is, they say they are.

But unfortunately Messrs. Murdoch and Preston have a reputation more for talking about trusts and combines than for killing them. When the Minister of Labour was a candidate during the last general election he told the voters that he was going to "kill these terrible dragons" who were doing Canada harm. Having been a member of the Liberal Government, he was supposed to inquire into such matters, the electors thought he knew what he was talking about. But he expected action as soon as the Liberals got into office.

Well, they got into office, and what did they do? They did practically nothing. By their actions they simply said, "Murdoch and Preston are talking about trusts and combines, if they existed, kept on just the same, with Mackenzie King and his Liberal Government. But before they did so the Government had to assure them that they would not be prosecuted for breaking the law."

Recently, Preston discovered what he describes as a terrible shipping combine on the Atlantic. Worse still, he finds that the Government is doing nothing about it. Of course there was nothing new about that for Parliament found it out in 1923, but then the Government did nothing. If this shipping combine on the ocean has been holding up the shipping of Canada it is now alleged, and the Government knew that its own vessels were a party to it, why didn't it do something?

It has recently been discovered that there is a fruit combine that has been holding up the public. It has been operating ever since the Government came into office—why didn't the trust-busters get busy before?

The reason is that with a general election just at hand the Government had to scurry around for new issues. It has gone back so completely on its word that it must have been doing things to direct the public attention from its faithlessness to its pledges. So the did terrible dragons are being trotted out again.

True, some Liberals who have no use for shams and fake issues, doubt the wisdom of such manoeuvres. Liberals responsible for the party's strategy admit that the "terrible dragon" act is just about over. They think it is good for at least another turn. You can't get it out of their heads that you can't fool the people.

Let no one be deceived by the operation of these two trust-busters. They are seeking merely to divert public attention from the real issues. If the so-called dragons are at all real, the leaders of the last men that should tackle them, having fallen down so badly on the job before.

PALESTINE ENJOYS WAVE OF PROSPERITY UNDER JEWISH SWAY

Thriving Cities Are Seen Where Recently All Was Barren Sand. GARDEN TOWNS ALL AROUND JERUSALEM

Palestine is enjoying a period of great prosperity, declared Sir Alfred Mond, who has just returned from a tour of the Holy Land. The development since he was there in 1921 has been so rapid that it is difficult to convey a picture of it to other people, he says. Agriculture and industry equally have progressed and there is no unemployment, but, on the contrary, a shortage of labor exists.

Sir Alfred, himself a Jew, envisions especially over the rapid growth of the town of Tel-Aviv, near Jaffa, which has become a city of 25,000 people. The site in 1900 was a strip of land, and now it is a city of 25,000 people.

The settlement was started by Jews from Jaffa and its rapid growth has attracted enterprising Hebrews from other countries whose silk weaving, shoemaking and furniture factories are now in full swing.

Halal and kosher restaurants are everywhere a great harbor, capable of accommodating the whole British Middle East fleet, and the port of Jaffa is also becoming the seat of important industries.

The rapid development of Palestine is keeping pace with the industrial, according to Sir Alfred, largely Jewish emigrants from Lithuania and Bulgaria. Garden cities are springing up around Jerusalem and costly houses are being erected.

Hostility Exaggerated. Sir Alfred asserts that the hostility of the Arabs to the Jewish development has been exaggerated as "the economic bond is stronger than the political." He also says that the Jewish movement is a movement of the masses, and that the Jewish movement is a movement of the masses.

Concurrently with Sir Alfred's statement, the Daily Express today reports that the Jewish movement is a movement of the masses, and that the Jewish movement is a movement of the masses.

Red Deer Sunburst Oils Stock advances from $1 per share to $1.50 per share on April 1st, 1925.

The Directors arrived at this decision in view of the fortunate position the company finds itself in today—with three producing wells, the price of crude oil advancing from 90c to $1.40 per barrel, the drilling of four more wells just as soon as the weather opens up with assured increased production, and ownership of what is admitted to be one of the most valuable forty acres in the field.

And if you want some of this valuable stock you have got to act quick. There is only a limited amount of stock available and when this is taken up no more will be offered.

In securing stock in the Red Deer Sunburst Oils Limited you are not putting your money into something that may or may not be good. Here you have a proven oil producing property, situated in the very heart of the oil fields and controlled by men of your own community, who have demonstrated they are after production and not promotion—men who have shown their faith in the proposition by investing their own money in it and have every confidence in securing you an opportunity to share in the prosperity that is sure to come to those who are fortunate enough to procure some shares in this company.

Red Deer Shareholders—not officers or directors of this company—who have visited the holdings, come back enthusiastic about the property and prospects of the company. One man said "It looked a lot better to me than was represented," and we believe that if you were down and saw exactly what we have you would say the same.

Geologists have stated that after a careful survey of the levels of logs and other wells that we should have "a high,"—which means one of two things—an exceptionally good well or a gusher—on our centre location.

The time to procure some shares at the initial price in this proven property is going short. April First and the price will be $1.50 per share.

So if you want to invest money in a dependable proposition, see us right away. The time is short.

Farm Insurance Increased 25 p.c.

Confirming my advertisement of some weeks ago, that an increase in rate was anticipated owing to the losses being greatly in excess of premiums received, the farm rate on and after April 1st will be the old rate of $2.00 per $100.

Insure to-day for three years coverage and save this increase. Insure in Board companies. Toronto Saturday Night strongly recommends Board Companies as opposed to Mutuals. Why? There is a good reason, when loss occurs you require full and prompt settlement. Our four losses of last month have all been paid 100 per cent.

Our business is to protect yours.

STATE OF TORMENT

"Little girl, what is the state of matrimony?" asked an examining priest in Ireland. "Please, your, it is just a state of torment and agony by which men are prepared for a better life," was the reply.

THE HABIT CLUNG

Kind Lady—What do you mean by putting any spoon in your pocket after eating the pudding?
Bessie Rogers—Oh, I beg your pardon, mum. Yer see I was waitin' on once an' contracted de souvenir habit.

"MAGGIE AND JIGGS"

With an entirely new outfit of scenery, costumes and cast of new faces, also diversified talent, comes that ever new but now ten years old musical entertainment, "Bringing Up Father." Each successive season brings a host of new features patterned after George McManus's world famed cartoon creation of the same title. As each Sunday edition of a thousand newspapers throughout the entire world, show some new stunts of "Jiggs and Maggie" and will not miss the attraction present new features every season. This season takes that pair of "Turtle Doves" back to their native land. "Bringing Up Father in Ireland" is the title of the offering which will prove to be the most popular of the series. Unlimited opportunity is offered for surpassing efforts in every detail of an up-to-date attraction. Of course, "Jiggs" will be the Lion of the Hour among the native collections, and in order that he will not miss the atmosphere of Atlantic City, "Jiggs" and "Dinty" have secured the agency for the "Irish Isles" for the amusements of the people. "Bringing Up Father" in one night only. A host of new features, including a new musical score, elaborate electrical effects. A complete new outfit of the newest designs in stage costumes. Special music of the catchiest sort, dances that will entrance the most blasé. In fact every feature that goes to make good entertainment for both young and old. Capacity business is the regular order of affairs when "Bringing Up Father" comes to town. Therefore the management suggests that you secure seats well in advance and avoid disappointment in the children by not being able to get front seats.

LAWYERS NOT TO BE BONDED

Had there been but three more "eyeballed" members in their seats in the Alberta Legislature Tuesday afternoon when the vote was taken on a resolution of G. A. Forster, U.P.A., Hamilton, that barristers and lawyers handling trust funds should be bonded, the Attorney-General of the province would today have been faced with the task of drawing up legislation whereby his brethren of the legal profession must take out bonds in some sum from $5,000 to $10,000 before they would be permitted to handle trust funds belonging to their clients.

The resolution which received strong endorsement at the recent U.P.A. convention in Calgary, found considerable support on both sides of the House, besides Farmer members voting in favor, despite the outspoken opposition of Attorney-General Brownie, and the silent negation of the plan of Premier Greenfield. When the vote was counted it was found that the resolution was lost by a 21-23 vote on a non-party vote. What saved the lawyers was that real estate men and others were not bonded, and that the Farmers had been honestly trying to have brethren in default "clean up."

A long hard Winter such as we have just gone through leaves Impure and Impoverished Blood

Without a good healthy blood stream we are subject to colds, aches, pains and minor ailments. For hundreds of years our grandmothers have proven the virtue of a spring tonic and blood purifier. They are even more essential now than in olden days, on account of our modern diet. Many who never took a spring tonic or blood purifier would find them a desirable benefit. Now is the time to take a reliable tonic. Do not put it off.

Nyal's Blood Purifier

is a carefully compounded elixir containing the best known blood purifiers and tonics. It is not a patent medicine, but an open formula that anyone can see and understand. You know what you are taking; and the same applies to

Nyal's Spring Tonic

They are both reliable and will give the desired results and are not expensive at $1.00 per large bottle.

You can give them to the children in proportion to age with perfect safety.

Phone or call for a bottle and if not perfectly satisfied bring back the empty bottle and the Nyal Company (through us) will at once refund your purchase price. This could not be done unless we had every confidence in the preparations.
